Author Marcia Rosen introduces her series: Senior Sleuths

Sharing the Stories, Memories and Thoughts of a Senior, with Marcia Rosen, who has written several books including "The Senior Sleuths" mystery series and "My Memoir Workbook." She has given numerous writing programs and facilitated many discussions with men and women of all ages who love to tell and hear stories… and to many who love to write them! She especially enjoys inspiring seniors to write.

More than ever, seniors are living full and engaging lives. As a senior, Marcia feels that she brings more insight and a sense of purpose to her passion for writing. This is why the seniors in the mysteries she writes are strong, smart and active main characters. She is proof that seniors can use their life experiences—whether failures, challenges or successes—to bring about enjoyable and productive lives filled with doing something they love to do.

Marcia was also owner of a successful Marketing and Public Relations Agency for many years, a frequent guest speaker throughout the country, and created several local radio and television talk shows. During the last few years—in addition to writing books—she has also focused on writing articles, many for senior audiences and making presentations to senior groups.
